

NAECR NETWORKING & KNOWLEDGE SERIES

These virtual events offer NAECR researchers and students opportunities to explore the latest early childhood research at the University of Nebraska, connect with community partners, and share tools and resources.

Showcasing Innovative Research in Social-emotional Development

Apr. 15 | Via Zoom | 12:00 - 1:00 p.m.

Early childhood researchers from across the NU system will share their latest research and findings on social-emotional development. Register now.

Using AI in Early Childhood Research

Mar. 13 | Via Zoom | 12:00 - 1:00 p.m.

How can early childhood researchers incorporate AI into their work? In this interactive session, researchers will learn strategies, tools and best practices. Register now.

NAECR RESEARCH, PRACTICE & POLICY EVENTS

These events promote connections between University of Nebraska researchers and the early childhood practice and policy communities. NAECR has partnered with the Nebraska Association for Infant Mental Health (NAIMH) and the TransformedED project for the following events. TransformedED is funded by a five-year Grand Challenges Catalyst Award from University of Nebraska–Lincoln’s Office of Research and Economic Development.

If you are interested in attending any of these events, contact Sommer Fousek at sfousek2@unl.edu.

APR

3

NAIMH Infant Mental Health Training

Lincoln, NE | 9:00 a.m. - 3:30 p.m.

This in-person training is recommended for those working with young children and families, such as home visitors, Head Start staff, early intervention providers and counselors. There is a registration fee and space is limited.

MAY

13

TransformED Community Partner-Researcher Roundtable

Via Zoom | 11:00 a.m. - 12:30 p.m.

This virtual event will bring research, practice and policy partners together to explore practitioners’ challenges in supporting children’s social-emotional development. An interactive discussion will follow to set priorities and shape a collaborative research agenda.

NAECR POLICY FELLOWS PROGRAM

The Policy Fellows program offers University of Nebraska early childhood researchers a unique opportunity to learn about local, state and federal policy processes. Participants gain a better understanding of research-policy links and build connections within the policy community. Applications for the next cohort open in April.

Learn more at: naecr.unl.edu/policy-fellows